Psychological competence . At home, when the mother began to clean, the daughter began to show her independence by picking up a rag to wipe the dust. Mom took the rag from her and told her not to interfere with her cleaning, and she would quickly do everything herself. Once, when her mother needed her daughter to help her, the girl did not do this, she was watching TV - as if she could not hear her mother. What explains this girl's behavior when her mother asked her to help her? What is the problem in this situation and how to solve it?
