

15-case

From an employee's story: "Every time I listen to unfair remarks from my boss, I am faced with a problem: What to do? How to explain to him that he was wrong? I understand that if I start to object, I will ruin my relationship with management completely and irrevocably. But if I accept his point of view without objection, then what about my own opinion, which is completely different?"